NEWS FROM MISSOULA

Methodists Contemplate the Building of a New Church.

THE RAILROAD BOYS' PICNIC

Preparing for the Big Celebration on the Fourth—in the Courts—Flathead Indians—Personal.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—At a meeting of the official members of the Methodist Episcopal church on Monday evening the subject of building a new church was discussed. The present structure is inadequate for the wants of the congregation and must be replaced by a larger building soon. John Cornish said today that the church is land poor. While its sister churches have been building new places of worship it has been securing real estate, and now owns land worth about $15,000, with buildings whose monthly rental is over $60. Plans for a new church have been drawn. When built it will stand at the corner of Main and Washington streets. The present structure faces on Washington, and is so placed that it can be attached to the new structure and will serve as a Sunday school room and church parlor. The new church will be built of brick and stone at an estimated cost of $10,000. If anything is done this summer it will probably be no more than to lay the foundation for the church. Application has been made for a loan from the Church Extension fund, and on the result of that application will depend considerably what is done this season. In time the church proposes to clear away all the frame buildings on its property and have a new chapel and parsonage connected with the church.

IN JUDGE EVANS' COURT.

Taxed the Costs to Dye—Sailor Jack Sentenced.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—James Farragut, known as "Sailor Jack," was sentenced to 90 days and $100 fine by Judge Evans this morning for assault and battery on a Chinaman last night.

The case of the state vs. R. J. Powley was tried before Judge Evans and a jury today on a charge of venue from Judge Jones' court at Corvallis. Mr. Powley was charged with drawing and exhibiting a pistol in a rude and angry manner otherwise than is necessary in self-defense on C. P. Dye, on the Butte Root train early in June. The testimony varied considerably, but the general story was that Dye tried to beat a ride and when compelled to pay pulled out a knife. Some witnesses said he flourished it, others that he scraped his finger nails and others that he merely held it in his hand. He and the conductor exchanged compliments and Conductor Powley got a pistol from another passenger, came back and told Dye, who was sitting in a seat, that he was now prepared to defend himself and if he made any breaks at him with his knife he would shoot him full of holes. The general testimony was that he held the pistol down beside his leg while saying this. Messrs. Reeves and Denny spoke for the state and Mr. Crutchfield for the defense. The jury was out a few minutes and brought in a verdict of acquittal and taxed the costs on Dye, the complaining witness.

AGENT OF THE FLATHEADS.

Major Roman Will Establish a Sub-Agency on Crow Creek.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—Major Roman was in the city today. He has recently been on a camping trip through the reservation and located a site for a sub-agency, a saw mill and a grist mill at a point on Crow creek. He was successful also in explaining to the Indians the object of the Missoula & Northern surveying party on the reservation and instructing them not to molest the men. Last Sunday he staid at the house of Michel, chief of the Pen d'Oreilles, and explained the situation to him. The major expects a visit before July 15 from General Carrington, special agent, to negotiate the sale of the Indian lands in the Bitter Root valley near Stevensville and to superintend the removal of Chariot's band from there to the Flathead reservation.

RAILROAD BOYS' PICNIC.

Employees of the Rocky Mountain Division Will Enjoy a Day's Sport.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—A great picnic will be given July 11 by the Northern Pacific railroad employees at Trout Creek hill. Among the amusements will be games as follows: Five hundred yard dash, fat men's race, cigar race, young ladies' race, 300-yard dash, standing broad jump, running broad jump, boys' sack race, three-legged race, 50 yards and return, standing high jump, running hop-step-and-jump, pole vault, putting the shot, tug of war, running high jump, game of quoits, long base ball throw for ladies, ladies' prize waitz, gentlemen's prize waitz and a boys' pie-eating contest. A large number of valuable and beautiful prizes have been donated by merchants and will be given to the victors.

HURRAH FOR THE FOURTH.

Missoula Will Celebrate in a Patriotic Manner.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—A number of merchants and business men have promised to have floats in the Fourth of July parade. Those who will participate in literary exercises, are Rev. Hugh Lamont, chaplain; H. O. Collins, poet; H. C. Steff, J. D. Walter, Judge Reeves and other orators and Rev. Dr. Raleigh who will read the declaration of independence. The line of march will be from the corner of Pine street and Higgins avenue east on Pine to Madison, south on Madison to Front, west on Front to Higgins avenue, north on Higgins avenue to Main, west on Main to Stevens, north on Stevens to Railroad, west on Railroad to Woody, south on Woody to Cedar, east on Cedar to Stevens, south on Stevens to Front, east on Front to Higgins avenue, north on Higgins avenue to Cedar street, west on Cedar to the court house.

A Jester Joked.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—George A. Stoner was tried for breach of peace and acquitted by jury in Judge Evans' court last evening. About a week ago he and Frank Thomas had some hot words, ending in blows. The jury to-night was in a hurry to go to the theater and was not out long. Judge Evans made Mr. Denny, attorney for the defense, very wrathful, by telling him the jury had fined Stoner $10 and costs and the reason was that he (Denny) learned too long a speech. When Mr. Denny learned the truth he felt better.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Gossip About Missoulians and Their Friends.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—John Tenny, manager of the Royal Insurance company of Philadelphia, is making a tour over the lines of the Northern Pacific railroad, inspecting all buildings and structures for the purpose of submitting to the board of directors suggestions relative to more modern system of fire protection. Mr. Tenny is traveling in one of the business cars of the Northern Pacific railroad, accompanied by his wife. They remained in Missoula Monday night and expressed astonishment at the magnitude of the business enterprise of the city as well as its beautiful surroundings.

T. M. Gibson, Wm. Hamilton and Wm. Toole and wife of Butte, registered at the Florence today.

Miss Carolyn Worden, who for the past year has been attending the Boston conservatory, is expected home within a few days.

Special to the Standard.

MISSOULA, July 1.—Laurel lodge No. 11, K. of P., installed officers to-night as follows: Harry W. Thompson, P. C.; J. R. Cox, C. C.; Wynne Roberts, V. C.; Charles E. Johnson, prelate; E. M. Ingalls, master of exercises; James H. Fussy, master of finance; H. H. Cases, sergeant-at-arms; B. S. Nesmith, K. of R. and S. After the installation a collation was served and after-dinner speeches indulged in.

VICTIMS OF THEIR CREDULITY.

Mental and Physical Agonies of Father Mollinger's Pilgrims.

Pittsburg Special.

Father Mollinger has been unable to put into practice the old Arabian maxim, "See to it that thy guest depart not with disappointed hopes." Hundreds of pilgrims remain here crippled in body, depleted in pocket and bearing on their faces every indication of keen despair.

At the Union station this morning cripples limping painfully along on crutches, and paralytics on roller chairs, could be seen on every side. They came in street cars and carriages, and ushers at the entrance assisted them to alight on the platform. Many of them, too weak to walk, were helped to the benches in the corridor and waited there as one after another was carried out to the trains in the roller chairs. Three of them, too ill to sit up, were brought to the trains on cots. At 150 of them went out on the Pennsylvania road, and a large number went south on the Pan Handle.

The three persons on the cots were placed in Pullman sleepers. Many of the invalids had barely money enough with which to purchase tickets to their homes. To come here they had raked and scraped all they could get to pay their way and a few days' board. One of these men was James Hana of Forty-third street, Trenton.

He had just enough money left to pay his passage back to his home, and he was almost heartbroken over the failure of Father Mollinger to effect a cure in his case. He said this morning:

"Many of the cures, as far as I can learn from sufferers like myself who have been for a week on Troy hill are exaggerated, and many were never effected as reported. I saw two men who, it was said, had been cured. Both of them were almost as lame as when they went to Troy Hill.

"It has been a bitter disappointment to many of us, who have exhausted every cent we had in the world in coming here. If ever one man in the world had faith, I was he. I firmly believed that if Father Mollinger laid his hand on me and said: 'Arise and walk,' immediately the paralysis of my legs would leave and I should walk. I prayed for a week, and one day I threw aside my crutches, when the priest laid his hands on my head and blessed me. I fell down and hurt my back. When I was coming over in the car this morning, on my way home, a hopelessly blind man opposite to me suddenly began to sob, and wringing his hands, cried: 'My God, I wish I were dead!' I spoke to him, and he told me his name was Wright, and that he was from Lebanon. He said that he had mortgaged his house in order to come to Pittsburg and be cured. There are many similar cases and I am told that Father Mollinger has had to furnish a number of people with money so that they could leave Troy Hill."

Mr. John Laing of Harrisburg is another cripple who went home more ill than when he came to Pittsburg. He was placed in a stateroom and a physician attended him. He suffered severely from exposure.

Story of the Molling Stone.

"This is my first regular trip on the South side line," said the loquacious passenger to the driver of the night car. "I've been a West-sider for a year. Before that I lived in half a dozen suburbs. 'Move every May' is my motto. A man wants a change," a story runs in the Chicago Tribune.

"That's so," said the driver. "Same way with my business," continued the loquacious passenger. "I've just gone into the real estate business. Before that I tried the board of trade. Before that I was ticket broker. Oh, I've been most everything, a regular jack-of-all-trades. 'Twon't do for a man to stay too long in a thing and get rusty.'"

"That's so," said the driver.

"Sometimes I'm up; sometimes I'm down. I've had my carriage and pair, and I've tried the walking. I'm down now, but I ain't kicking. 'Variety's the spice of life,' you know."

"That's so," replied the driver.

"Driving must be mighty monotonous. 'Tis, ain't it?"

"Oh, so-so."

"Any money in it?"

"Bout $75 a month."

"Got anything laid by?"

"House and lot."

"What're they worth?"

"I've been offered $7,500."

"Got a family?"

"I've raised eight—five boys and three girls."

"Been driving for the company long?"

"Oh, 'bout 22 years."

Two Ungrateful Fellows.

From the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Miss Emma Loup, living at Loup's lake, a short distance from the city, has just shown her bravery by rescuing two young men who were fishing in that lake. The boat they were using was a cranky punt, which capsized, and being unable to swim they would have been drowned had not Miss Loup gone to their assistance. She had considerable difficulty in getting them into her boat from the punt, to which they were clinging. As soon as she landed them they skulked away without even thanking her.

A Dooley county, Ga., negro named Warren McKenzie owns three farms, a mill, steam gin and a store.

WHY HE WAS FEELING SO BLUE.

He Was the Life of the Party the Night Before, but Something Went Wrong.

From the Chicago Tribune. "What is the matter, old man?" he said as they met the morning after. "You look blue."

"I feel blue."

"But last night you were the jolliest member of the party."

"I felt jolly."

"You acted like a boy just let out of school."

"I felt like one."

"You said your wife had gone away for the first time in three years, and there wasn't any one to say a word if you went home and kicked over the mantle clock."

"I remember it."

"You said that if you staid out until 4 o'clock there was no one to look at you reproachfully and sigh and make you feel mean."

"Yes, and I staid out until 4 o'clock, didn't I?"

"You certainly did."

"And I gave an Indian warwhoop on the doorstep?"

"Yes, and you sang a verse from a comic opera song and tried to dance a clog."

"And my wife had missed the train. Now go away and leave me. I want to kick myself a great more for not taking the precaution to get an affidavit from the conductor that she went off with the train."

The Banner Baby Year.

From the Philadelphia Record.

In 1888, which was considered a remarkably prolific year, the number of births recorded in this city was 26,296, an increase of nearly 2,000 over 1887, while the regular rate of increase from year to year is about 903.

The records of 1891 promise to completely eclipse these figures. From Jan. 1 to June 1 the births registered at the health office numbered 13,317, while for a corresponding period of 1890 10,732 was the number, and increase for the five months of 2,585. Physicians say that there will be a remarkably large number of happy families before the year 1892 comes to greet us.

The health office has also noticed the large increase in births for this year and will take extra steps to procure a thorough registration. Advice received at this office show that the increase is true of the whole country. An extraordinary large number of birthdays will date from the good year 1891.

How the Mayor Recaptured It.

From the Atchison Globe.

A long time ago there was a good poker game in Atchison, and sharks came miles to beat it. It was a hard game, and the sharks usually got the worst of it. But once a Texas man dropped in and beat the game. Playing in it was the mayor.

A fine jack nut came up; the mayor opened it for $25; the Texas man, who was dealing, raised it $75. The mayor drew three cards to ace, and made "aces up," the Texas man drew five cards and made a straight.

It was a clear case of a robbery, but nobody squealed, and the Texas man took the money and hastened to the Union depot. In a few minutes he was arrested for vagrancy and fined $300.

"We never let a stranger get away winner in those days," observed the citizen who told the story.

People in a poor quarter of London, noticing no signs of life in the house of a neighbor, broke open the door and found the mangled corpses of the whole family. The indications are that the man butchered his wife and child and then committed suicide.
